BABY NOYES A WONDER. Two-Year-Old Bostonian Who Smoke and Chows Tohneco. When a two-and-a-half-year-old boy can take down his father's old clay pips and smoke it, can inhale the fumes of a cigarette without a sneeze, pull at a cigar by way of a change, and chew tobacco like gum, he must be reckoned s rather precededs infant, says the Boston Globe. George Ernest Noyes Boston Globe. George Ernest Noyes, the two-and-a-holf-year-old child of E. C. Noyes, of 200 Medford street, Charlestown, has just this amount and kind of precedity. The baby's passion for tobacco is a well-developed one, for whenever he is asked what he wants shyone to give litin, he invariably replies a character or a cigar. A few days up to surprised the pairolman on the best near his home by leaning up against the side of the building, snok-knee, he would grasp for the old pipe which the father was smoking. When he saw the pipe placed on the mantel he would climb upon a chair to reachit. One evening while the father was smoking and the child was doing his level best to take the pipe from his mouth, he concluded to let him have it to see what he would do with it. The baby astonished the family by putting the olpe in his mouth exactly as he had seen his father do, and putting with great satisfaction. He erled when it was taken away from him. After that for awhile the buby was such a curiosity that his elder brothers kept trying him to see what he would do and to find out If they could not make him sick. They gave him cigarettes and cigars, which he smoked so readily and with such enjoyment that now they cannot keep
